Group page is way too small to see well. Should be 1-2 columns at most.

It is almost impossible to find create event without zooming in.

A screenshot of a Facebook event page. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links like 'Search', 'Home', 'Create', and social sharing icons. Below that is a language selection bar with options for English (US), Español, Português (Brasil), Français (France), Deutsch, and more. The main content area shows an event titled 'Event for Fake Roommates - Hosted by CJ Andrews'. The date is listed as OCT 18, and the location is Hill. The event starts at 5 PM and ends at 8 PM, with a note that it starts within an hour. There are sections for 'TEST' and '1 Going · 0 Maybe · 1 Invited'. At the bottom, there are buttons for 'Write Post', 'Add Photo/Video', 'Live Video', and 'Create Poll', along with a text input field for writing a message.

This change language section does not need to be placed here. Without it, the event details column could be bigger.

Wasted space.

Takes advantage of more of the space available so everything is easier to see.

A screenshot of the PayPal mobile application interface. At the top, there is a blue header bar with a menu icon (three horizontal lines), the PayPal logo, and a notification bell icon with a red circle containing the number '1'. Below the header is a white card-like section. On the left side of this section is a teal circular profile picture placeholder with a white person icon. To the right of the placeholder is the phone number '+1 610-324-0930'. Below the phone number is a large '$ 0.00' amount, with a 'USD' dropdown button underneath. A green dashed rectangular box highlights this area with the text: 'Focused on payment. No mentions of other pages here.' In the center of the card, there is a light blue button with the text 'Sending to a friend' on the left and a 'Change' link on the right. Below this button is a thin horizontal line. Further down is another thin horizontal line followed by a note input field with a pencil icon and the text 'Add a note'. At the bottom of the card, there is a note about viewing PayPal policies and payment method rights, with links to 'View PayPal policies' and 'Your payment method rights'. Below this note are two buttons: a rounded rectangle labeled 'Continue' and a standard rectangular button labeled 'Cancel'. At the very bottom of the screen, there is a footer navigation bar with links for 'Help', 'Contact', 'Sitemap', and 'Fees'.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

1. Group pages are a good way of combining all the information pertinent to living with others
 1. Current competitors do not combine all the functionality needed for roommates into one service
2. Many sites treat creating new payment methods, events, posts, or other content as popup windows
3. Google Sheets does not have the optimal functionality for the creation of a shared chore chart – it is too disconnected from other services and thus people would be less likely to check the chart often
4. For confusing functionality, it is important to have help bubbles to explain things to the user so they are less confused
5. Having a good mobile web page design goes a long way
 1. Many sites have strange UI for mobile that makes it hard to read
 2. When dealing with people's money, you need good UI in order to establish trust with the user
